Skillful Surgery!

Removal of Urinary Calculi by the Knife.

A LUCKY MAN.

Mr. Simeon Tietsoh, of Saugerties, N. Y., has been treated for seven years by various physicians for what they call Stricture of the Urethra, without benefit. He finally consulted Dr. David Kennedy, of Rondout, N. Y., who found his trouble to be Urinary Calculi or Stones in the Bladder. The doctor at once removed the foreign bodies with the knife and then gave his great Blood Specific, "Favorite Remedy," to prevent their reformation. The entire treatment was wonderfully successful, and Mr. Tietsoh's recovery was rapid and perfect.

We find "Favorite Remedy" a specific in all Kidney and Bladder diseases. It is equally valuable in cases of Bilious Disorders, Constipation of the Bowels, and those diseases of the apparently inseparable from the constitution of women. Try it. Your druggist has it, and for only one dollar a bottle. The lucky man is he who puts this advice in practice. Don't forget the name and address, Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y. The doctor won't have it unless you find, while he is engaged in the business, a lot of his medicine, "Favorite Remedy," he will consider the practice of his profession, but continue himself exclusively to Office practice. He treats all diseases of a chronic character, and performs all the minor and deeper surgical operations.

Terrible Steamboat Disaster.

SEAWANHAKA ON FIRE.

WITH FIVE HUNDRED PASSENGERS.

Fifty or More Persons Perish.

PARTICULARS OF THE CATASTROPHE

NEW YORK, June 28.—Steamboat Seawanhaka, which ran from Peck Slip up the Sound to Glenwood, L. I., took fire at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon, while off Randall Island, East River. The fire was caused by an

and the middle of the steamboat was soon in flames. The pilot, Charles Smith, remained at his post until nearly burned to death, and succeeded in beaching the vessel on a sunken meadow adjoining the Island. Many persons

SPRANG OVERBOARD AND WERE DROWNED.

Many others, in the stern of the vessel, could not get off and were burned to death. Of 500 persons supposed to have been on board,

FIFTY ARE BELIEVED TO HAVE PERISHED.

The bodies of about thirty dead persons were recovered. Only those of Dr. B. Boise, a wealthy gentleman, residence unknown, and of Mary Reed, a young woman, were identified.

Among the persons of prominence known to be on board were Charles A. Dana, of the Sun, S. M. L. Barlow, Col. W. R. Chase and R. H. Rochester, Treasurer of the Western Union Telegraph Company, all of whom are safe.

LATER PARTICULARS.

Nothing unusual occurred until the Seawanaka was passing through Hell Gate, when a sudden cry of fire from below sent a thrill of terror through the passengers, who almost immediately became panic stricken, and rushed about almost wild. Every effort was made by the officers to extinguish the flames, but without avail, and in less than five minutes after the alarm was given, the flames shot up from the cabin, about the paddle wheels. The scene on board at this time baffles all description.

WOMEN WITH CHILDREN IN THEIR ARMS, jumped overboard and were lost. Men in attempting to escape fell into the river and were carried away by the current, while others who were in the cabin, being unable to escape, were burned to death. When all hope of saving the vessel had been abandoned she was beached near Ward's Island, where she continued to burn to the water's edge. Capt. Smith, who had charge of the ill-fated boat, with his officers tried all in their power to save the lives of the passengers, and the captain was badly burned before leaving the vessel.

AN UNFAVORABLE RUMOR.

About the time the steamer left the pier she fell in with the Harlem steamer Sylvan Dell, which is a very fast vessel. Both boats went up the river close together at a high rate of speed, and it seemed apparent they were engaged in a determined race. The Seawanaka had the reputation of being the fastest boat on the river, and was not accustomed to allow anything to pass her, and the captain admitted tonight that when the disaster occurred she was steaming at the rate of fifteen or sixteen knots an hour against ebb tide. Whether or not, it is certain the engines, boiler, and even the smoke stack grew red hot, and when passing through Hell Gate the smokestack vent forth volumes of black smoke, which looked as if burning greasy material. The passengers were on the upper decks, fanned by the breeze. Capt. Smith held the wheel in the pilot house assisted by Stephen Warren. The regular pilot of the boat was absent in charge of a sister boat on the Hudson. Edward Weeks, chief engineer, was at his post, assisted by Frank Weeks. The vessel not being bound on a trip not one hundred miles from the city, was not obliged by law to keep a passenger list, but if she had one it would undoubtedly shared the fate of that of the Narragansett.

OTHER SCENES AND INCIDENTS.

Isaac W. England, publisher of the Sun, was also a passenger. He with Mr. Dana and Mr. Barlow jumped into the water and were rescued by small boats from Randall's Island. They remained on the island but a short time and left for home. A man jumped from the burning vessel and commenced to swim down the river. The steamer Rhode Island was passing, and a line was thrown to him and he was taken on board. The Osceo, which rescued so many passengers, is Gen. Newton's government boat. Every piece of woodwork that could be torn from the Seawanaka was thrown overboard and used as a raft.

HOW MANY WERE RESCUED.

The Eastern Boulevard club's grounds on East 125th street are right opposite the scene of the disaster. Some dozen of the members were present at the time and gathered a number of the neighbors and manned all the boats of the club and hired other boats at the adjacent docks. Three boats all went across the river and brought about forty persons to the club house, who were scalded about the body, hands and face. The forms of these parties were dressed, and clothes given them, and the friends of those who were not able to get home were notified, and these came with carriages and removed them.

OLD WORLD NEWS.

CAPTURING FRIGANDS IN NEW SOUTH WALES.—THE INTERNATIONAL RIFLE MATCH.

SYDNEY, June 28.—For some time past a vigorous search has been prosecuted by the authorities of New South Wales for the gang of robbers who have broken into several banks in this province of late and also committed several other robberies of public and private buildings. The gang is headed by one Kelly, a notorious outlaw for whose arrest considerable towards have been offered. This morning the police succeeded in tracing them to their hiding place, and captured them after a severe struggle in which four persons were shot. It is said that much of the booty was also recovered. The robbers were lodged in jail.

This is a remarkable circumstance. Only a few weeks ago the entire Democratic party of this country stood up with its hair on end at the sandiness of "The Man on Horseback." They fairly wrung their hands at the prospect that the Chicago Convention might nominate a military man for President. Their fears were not entirely allayed when the convention nominated a gentleman who, though he has been sixteen years in Congress, was in the army during the war. They said so much about it that some people believed when they came to make their own nomination they would certainly nominate a Quaker. And now they have gone and nominated "The Man on Horseback" themselves—a Major-General in active service. What are we coming to?—[N. Y. Tribune.

HOW TO DESTROY THE POTATO BUG.

[From Prairie Farmer.]

The following is an easy and rapid method of destroying the larva of the potato bug at any time when the heat is as powerful as it has been in the last few days. Perhaps heat would be sufficient. If you would give it a place in your valuable paper, I believe it would be appreciated by not a few who are now struggling against the pests:

Pass along between the rows of potatoes and with a stick shake off the grubs between the rows, and if the soil is sandy or well-pulverized and well heaped about the stalks, they cannot get back, but will be literally roasted in a short time.

It will be observed that the heat of the ground and sun are the requisites, and if the present is an exceptionally favorable time, let those try it who wish and get rid of one crop at least. CHAS. E. FARNUM.

WOONSOCKET, R. I., June 28, 1880.

Another Steamer on Fire.

EXCITEMENT IN NEW YORK.

STEAMER PROVIDENCE IN DANGER.

A Great Conflagration Barely Averted.

NEW YORK, June 28.—The steamship Geo. W. Clyde, plying between this city and Charlestown, was seriously damaged by fire this morning while lying at her dock at the foot of Park Place. The vessel arrived at this port on Saturday last with a very large cargo, consisting of cotton, 2000 barrels of rosin, 500 barrels of turpentine and other products to Eastern firms. The turpentine and rosin was stored in the lower hold, from the centre to the bow, and the hatches, according to the statement of one of the seamen belonging to the ship, were only opened this morning. Shortly after nine o'clock smoke and flames suddenly issued from the hatch amidship and a hurried examination resulted in the discovery that the ship was on fire below. The utmost excitement prevailed on board immediately following, but the purser kept the men at their posts and no alarm was given.

Seven steamers and four trucks of the Fire Department were at the pier five minutes from the time the gongs sounded. By that time the ship was almost completely enveloped in smoke, and it seemed as if she was doomed. The men of Steamer No. 27 brought their hose, after several ineffectual efforts, to bear upon the flames, four being lowered to the main deck through the stifling vapor and heat. After remaining five minutes, during which they did splendid work, they signalled to be drawn up as they could stand it no longer. Their places were quickly taken by four other firemen of the same company.

The excitement on the adjoining docks while the Clyde was burning was intense. Lying in close proximity alongside the pier above was the fine steamer Providence of the Fall River line, which was receiving freight and was making preparations to leave this afternoon for her destination, but the fires of her furnaces were not lighted. Her situation was critical, and it was evident that unless immediately removed she would be destroyed if the fire on the Clyde mastered the efforts of the firemen. Men hurried along the dock shouting and yelling; truckmen for the moment became demoralized, and whipping their horses sought the street regardless of life or limb. The panic would have been complete had not a detachment of police arrived on the ground. Finally the tug Gorilla, which was lying in the stream, came to the rescue and hauled the Providence far out into the river, where she remained at anchor until word was received that all danger was over.

The excitement on the piers below was equally great, and hundreds were engaged in pulling and hauling out of harm's way the innumerable lighters and small craft that filled the slips. President King, Chief Engineer Bates and Commissioner Gorman were among the first to reach the burning Clyde and superintended the movements of the firemen.

FOURTH OF JULY.

In an article in the Christian at Work on the great national holiday, we are reminded that the dominant virtue in Rome under the Cæsars was patriotism; having that, the Roman citizen was readily pardoned his personal vices and shortcomings. But everywhere in the United States and out of it the cardinal virtue of the Christian is loyalty to the Master, and the one who is most loyal to God will be most loyal to his country. The Christian at Work adds:

"It is to be feared too many of our young men are growing up with imperfect knowledge of their country's history, with too little appreciation of the blood and treasure which was poured out to make us a nation—in short, with too little patriotism. While bringing up the American boys and girls in the fear of God, forget not to teach them the lessons of patriotism. Let them read the lives of the Washingtons, the Jeffersons, the Adams, the Jacksons, the Lincolns of the country, and so far as they make those lives their own, we shall not want for intelligent, self-sacrificing patriotism, which will be swift to obey the call of duty." And in connection we are pleased to call attention to a book now being offered to our citizens called "Lossing's History of Our Country," by the veteran author, B. F. Lossing, as being a thorough readable account of the growth of American Institutions from the year 1002 to the present time. Written by one whose name is a guarantee for the accuracy of the facts as given in the work, and we feel sure that in subscribing for this work our citizens will be amply repaid for the cost, as the reputation of the publishers guarantees the best of workmanship in every part of the work as this is the fifth year they have been in business as publishers in New York.

When Horace Greeley was nominated in 1872, the Democratic enthusiasm at the start was immense. For the first two months of the canvass it was clear that Greeley would be elected if talk and brag would elect him. Scarcely a state was conceded to Gen. Grant. But as the canvass progressed the situation changed. The Republicans attended strictly to business and perfected their organization, while the Democrats kept up their Chinese gong tactics. The Greeley enthusiasm which had been mainly on the surface, began to subside. The Grant wave kept rising steadily. When the votes were counted the Democratic wind-bag was exploded—scarcely a trace of Greeley and Brown could be found. The opening of the canvass of 1880 reminds us very forcibly of the opening of the canvass of 1872.—[New London Telegram.

HOT WEATHER POINTS.

Keep quiet. Go slow. Work moderately. Do not get yourself into a stew, nor chafe yourself to a blister, nor tease yourself into perspiration, nor let your temper rise above the boiling-over point. Eat regularly, and enough plain food if you can get it. Drink like a fish, which was never known to take too much water, nor the other thing. Avoid all liquid abominations and damnations, unless you want to have a foretaste of purgatory, and to die before your turn comes. Look not on the apple when it is green, nor the cucumber when it is wilted, nor the melon when it is unripe. Beware of the sea serpent, which has been seen by many to their sorrow. Shun crowds, and keep good company at home or in the coolest place you can find. Read, tell stories, laugh, be happy as the thermometer will permit, and refresh yourselves now and then by thinking what you would do if there were no weather at all. Respectfully decline to see the book agent, and tell the freeman to bring in his bill next winter, when you will pay him in kind, pound for pound. Buy an umbrella to lend, give the hand-organist a quarter to play in front of your debtor's door, and present your neighbor's small boy who has a drum with a fishing-rod or a pistol, for ten to one he will get a ducking or have his hand shot off. Indeed, there is no end of quiet pleasures one may enjoy even in midsummer if he will only put his whole mind to the business.—N. Y. Express.

The Chicago hotels have been giving the newspapers figures, showing receipts from the national convention, and a very pretty penny they aggregate. The Palmer house took in $105,000, the Grand Pacific about $100,000, the Tremont $30,000, and the Sherman $27,000. Other hotels got slices of the melon proportionate to their facilities. The sum total left in the city by strangers during convention week is computed to have exceeded $400,000. There were, of course, large outlays to meet the requirements of the extra crowd, but the hotel men express themselves satisfied with their profits.

"Eleven years our daughter suffered on a bed of misery under the care of several of the best (and some of the worst) physicians, who gave her diverse various names but no relief, and now she is restored to us in good health by a simple remedy as Hop Bitters, that we had prejudiced for two years before using it. We earnestly hope and pray that no one else will let their sick suffer as we did, on account of prejudice against so good a medicine as Hop Bitters."—[The Parents.—Telegram.

A PUBLIC DUTY.

We are not in the habit of puffing any sort of patent medicines in our columns, for the business of a newspaper is to let people know what is going on in the world, and not to lend aid to what may be an imposition. But we happen to know Dr. David Kennedy of Rondout, N. Y., and can personally testify to the excellence of the medicine which the doctor calls "Favorite Remedy." And if a word of ours will persuade anybody to use it, and thus find relief from suffering, no professional etiquette shall hinder us from saying that word. For diseases of the blood, kidneys and bowels it has no equal. We would not be without it for five times the dollar that it costs.—[Daily Times.

Newport Daily News.

TUESDAY, JUNE 29, 1880.

A Hancock and English club is to be organized in this city at an early day. There is room for all.

Another steamboat horror is reported today. There seems to be an epidemic of accidents this season.

The meeting at the State House last evening was one of the most interesting and enthusiastic which the old building has witnessed for many a year.

Gen. Grant denies the foolish story that he would support Hancock against Garfield. As a matter of fact Gen. Grant never had as good an opinion of Gen. Hancock as a soldier as he did of many other Union generals.

The committee on the Fourth of July celebration requests us to say that no one else is authorized to solicit or receive contributions for its use. It may find it necessary to ask aid for fireworks and will fully notify the public of the fact.

The New Bedford Mercury says: A Washington telegram announces the discovery of a counterfeit $100 bill on the Mechanics National Bank of New Bedford. The counterfeit is made from a skeleton plate, and notes of that denomination on every national bank in the country can easily be produced. Indeed they have already appeared on several. The counterfeit is said to be much better executed in several respects than the original.

Peter Cooper and other Greenbackers called on Gen. W. S. Hancock yesterday and presented him with three documents in favor of fiat money. This is a disadvantage under which Gen. Hancock labors. Having had nothing to do with civil life and having committed himself on none of the important questions of the day, all factions regard him as game to be caught in their net. Fortunately for the Republicans General Garfield has made his record on financial and other questions and the people know just where to find him. He is not in a condition to receive the documents and promise to study up the questions submitted, as Gen. Hancock did on this occasion.

The Providence Journal says. The unequalled advantages of Narragansett Bay for a naval establishment have long been recognized by nautical men. Its accessibility, its broad expanse, its depth of water, its mild and salubrious climate, its convenient landings, its bold shores, its ample supply of fine fresh water, its proximity to the ocean, all unite to commend it to the consideration of the naval authorities, for the permanent location of the Training School, which has become an important a part of the navy. This school, which is designed to man the navy with trained, disciplined, temperate and obedient seamen, and also from its overflow to replenish the merchant service with a superior class of men, is deserving of every encouragment; and nothing could be better for it than a permanent establishment at Newport. Could Coaster's Harbor Island be placed at the disposal of the government, there is good reason to believe that the Training School would be permanently established there. The location would meet the general commendation of the officers of the navy, and is undoubtedly the best for the purpose on the whole Atlantic coast.

POLITICAL DEFAMATION.

In speaking of the tendency to abuse the candidates for office by telling all manner of lies about them the Graphic very properly says:

There is, however, one consolation about the whole matter. Mud slinging does no harm to its object. In his day Washington was the mark for it, so was Jefferson, Jackson and Lincoln. They were not killed by it. In our own day General Grant was the object of the most malignant slanders, and yet General Grant has been twice President of the United States, and there was a large party in the country in favor of making him President for a third time. In our own state all our strong men have been maligned. To take but a single instance, Roscoe Conkling, what has not been charged to him? And yet he is in his third term as a Senator of the United States, and he has remained for more than twenty years a prominent figure in the Republican politics of this state.

For the last ten years he has been the first Republican of the state, and today with his power unshattered he remains the leading Republican Senator.

Defamation fails because it is bitter and unscrupulous. The persons whom rational and sober criticism might influence are disgusted with the sheer lies that appear in the party press. In fact, the Democrats lie on the one side and the Republicans on the other, and only in so far as the opposed sheets quote from each other or attempt to answer each other's statements do those statements reach the voters who might be influenced by them if they were true and put forth soberly. A fiendish delight is taken by the party editor in publishing a scandalous story reflecting on the character of an opponent. Such stories have no effect. The only way to treat them is to follow Grant's example by passing them in contemptuous silence. At some day, which we hope is not far in the future, a more rational mode of discussing political questions will be devised by the American editor than defaming the standard bearer of the other party. We dare say the Presidential candidates now so roundly abused will survive the abuse heaped upon them, and many of their defamers may live to eat their own words.

ROSECRANS ON GARFIELD.

Gen. Rosecrans who is a Democrat of the first water and known to many of our citizens, has given his opinion of General Garfield to a California reporter. He says:

"Garfield was a member of my military family during the early part of the war. When he came to my headquarters I must confess that I had a prejudice against him, as I understood he was a preacher who had gone into politics, and a man of that cast I was naturally opposed to. The more I saw of him the better I liked him, and finally I gave him his choice of a brigade or to become my Chief of Staff. He chose the latter. His views were large, and he was possessed of a thoroughly comprehensive mind. Late in the summer of 1863 he came to me one day and said that he had been asked to accept the Republican nomination for Congress from the Ashtabula (O.) district, and asked my advice as to whether he ought to accept it, and whether he could do so honorably. I replied that I thought he not only could accept it with honor, but that I deemed it to be his duty to do so. 'The war is not yet over,' I said, 'nor will it be for some time to come. There will be many questions arising in Congress which require not only statesmanlike treatment, but the advice of men having an acquaintance with military affairs will be needed; and for that and several other reasons you would, I believe, do equally as good service to this country in Congress as in the field.' I consider Garfield head and shoulders above any of the men named before the convention, and far superior to any of the political managers upon the floor."

The only complaint before the court today was a complaint against Alice Lees, wife of James Lees, for violation of the liquor law, which was continued to July 2—James himself has several complaints of this kind pending against, some in the lower court and some gone up on appeals—now his wife has been seined in, it looks as though, when the day of court judgment does arrive, if ever it does, there may be trouble in the household of James and Alice, and some fall reckoning at the captain's office when the day of final account arrives.

THE MILITIA ENCAMPMENT.

Gen. E. H. Rhodes, commanding Brigade Rhode Island Militia, has issued General Orders No. 4, giving the details of the daily routine of duty and in instructions concerning "Camp Littlefield" next month, which will be of interest mainly only to the militiamen themselves. Guards will pass all respectable people into camp between the hours of reveille and tattoo, but visitors will not be allowed to remain after tattoo without written permission of the brigade or battalion commander. REPUBLICANS TO THE FRONT.

AN ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING AT THE STATE HOUSE.—SEVERAL STIRRING SPEECHES.—A GARFIELD CLUB TO BE ORGANIZED.—A POLITICAL MEETING THAT DISCUSSED PRINCIPLES.

A Republican meeting was held at the State House last night to take action regarding the organization of a Garfield and Arthur Club. There was a good attendance, including many of our leading citizens and business men.

The meeting was called to order by Mr. Clark H. Burdick, after which Gov. Van Zandt was elected chairman and Col. Will J. Cozzens, secretary.

A committee of two from each ward was appointed to frame and report a constitution and by-laws to be presented at a future meeting. The names selected from the wards were as follows,

First Ward—William E. Crandall, William S. Bachelder.

Second Ward—Henry T. Paston, William A. Stedman.

Third Ward—William P. Sheffield, Lucius D. Davis.

Fourth Ward—Christopher M. Lee, Mahlon Van Horne.

Fifth Ward—Charles H. Burdick, Albert C. Landers.

The routine business being over Gov. Van Zandt was called upon for a speech.

The Governor said it gave him great pleasure to be present, but he regretted that at the adjourned meeting he would be out of the city. He hoped, however, to be here in due season to do his share of the campaign work. Newport's voice during the coming campaign should give no uncertain sound. He believed in the Republican party as absolutely as he did during the dark days of the rebellion, and he also believed in the principles of the party as administered by Abraham Lincoln, Ulysses G. Grant and Rutherford B. Hayes. He saw no reasons to modify his views and desired upon this occasion to place on record his strong conviction of the need of perpetuating its principles.

He said it was important that Garfield and Arthur should be elected, and considered the coming political contest one of the most important in which the country had ever been engaged. It made but little difference to him whether it was the blue or the gray who had fought on the field of battle if he caught either in the attempt to pick his pocket. The traditions of the battle-field and the sentiments connected therewith goes for nothing. The views of the Democratic party are the same today as they were before the war. Winfield Scott Hancock was a glorious soldier but it makes no difference in this contest what battles he fought in while wearing the uniform of a major-general. Lincoln and McClellan were rival candidates for the Presidency. McClellan wore the uniform of a general in the Union army and he was put forward by the Democrats in the hope he would carry the day for his party but he failed to do so, Lincoln being elected by the people. Again the Democrats, true to their history, picked up another respectable candidate who did not represent them, in the person of Horace Greeley, and behind whose back they endeavored to shield themselves. But he, with all his prestige, gave no lustre to the party with which he had formed a strange alliance. The poor old man went down to his grave because he could not stand up under the great load of the Democratic party. Twice had the Democrats thus attempted to deceive the country by placing McClellan and Greeley at the head of their tickets. The speaker pertinently asked if the party was to be deceived a third time. He admitted that Hancock was a brave Union soldier. He was not at the State House to impeach his personal and private character. One fact, however, should not be lost sight of. Hancock was a graduate of West Point. He was ordered to do duty and was compelled to obey, but no one knew what his views or sentiments were at that time. James Abraham Garfield who sprang from the people, was, prior to the war, engaged in civil life making a living for his family. At the outbreak of the war he doffed his uniform and went to the field and fought as well and as nobly as Gen. Hancock did and that, too, without being under the immediate orders of the Government he loved so well. It was his patriotism, and his manhood which sent him to the front.

The speaker then compared the record of both men during the war. Hancock's civil views were not known. How different was Garfield, who at home and at the National Capitol as a representative from the great state of Ohio, was ever reiterating his views and sentiments and that, too, in no uncertain terms. His fellow-countrymen knew just where he stood.

If successful the Democrats will pension the rebel soldiers and pay for the liberated slaves. The hungry horde of office seekers will rush for the public crib as they never did before. The capital and labor of New England will be obligated to pay what the South has all along call their "War Debt."

He congratulated the gentlemen present upon the interest which they had taken in forming a Garfield club, and he hoped they would be a power for good and that their influence would be felt and extended beyond the confines of the state.

The next speaker was the Hon. W. P. Sheffield, who said it would be unworthy in him to decline the invitation to speak. The occasion called to mind the organization in 1856, of the first Republican club in Newport. He drew the call and circulated it for names in connection with Col. Swan and others. This event, together with the history of the Republican party up to the present time, had come to his mind and he had recounted the sad memories of the war, the freeing of the slaves and the other good and noble work which had been done by the party. He said he was glad to learn of the action of the Chicago Convention, where the "machine" had been broken and the right man nominated. He rejoiced also that the "machine" at Cincinnati had been broken, and that the barrel of dollars at either convention had failed to draw. He was glad that the campaign was not to be a personal one but one of principles. The Democrats had selected a man without experience in civil affairs, and to illustrate his point he said that one would not select a clergyman to sail a ship. It would not do for a man to rule a nation who had had no experience. He would not select a fiddler to build a house. It would be Hancock's cabinet which would be the power behind the throne and its members would be president in fact while he (Hancock) would be only in name. However brilliant a soldier Hancock had been he would be like clay in the hands of the potter.

Garfield was a man of his personal choice. He was a man of the people. He had dug potatoes and driven a canal boat, &c. Today, notwithstanding his early struggles to secure an education, he was one of the most learned men of the country. During the war he had been in the front rank and he had also been at the front as regarding political principles in time of peace. His slanderers had no ground upon which to stand. He trusted that every man would carefully study the principles of the Republican party which gave every man his social and other rights. It was the part which upheld the integrity of the constitution and which believed in the upholding of the laws. He was not there to say that General Hancock was not a patriot as he (Hancock) had laid his breast too often to warrant any such statement, but what he objected to was the influence which would control his administration from beyond Mason and Dixon's land.

Mr. L. D. Davis was called upon and expressed his gratification that the country had passed beyond mere personal politics. All the candidates were clean men and nothing need be said against either. This is a contest for principles and not men. He called attention to the first statement of the Democratic platform wherein it is stated that the party proposes to stand by its traditions and history and to occupy the same position as in the past. If therefore the party was not to be trusted with the control of the government in the days of the war and of reconstruction it should not be now. We all know what the party has been in the past; how it supported slavery, encouraged nullification, effected secession and plunged us into war. It was possible to reform and get on to better ground, but the National Convention starts out in its platform with the announcement that no reform is intended. They stand by and maintain the history and traditions of the past. It is with the same principles now, therefore, that we have to contend as then. No new issues are raised and no new contest begun. It is the continuance of the old fight—the prolongation of the battle for the union and for freedom. With this understanding there can be no doubt as to where loyal and true men should stand. We are not prepared to go back to the traditions of the Democratic party for our political platform and principles.

The speeches were all received with much enthusiasm and at the conclusion the meeting adjourned to the call of the committee.

PRIVATE OWNERSHIP OF WATER WORKS.

To the Editor of the Daily News:

The following letter just received by General Potter is from Jesse L. Williams, Esq., who is described as one of the oldest and most distinguished civil engineers of the West, and one of the most successful railroad men of the country:

"FORT WAYNE, Ind., June 25.

General Robert B. Potter, Newport, R. I.:

"DEAR SIR: I was not surprised to find from the New York Herald of 23d inst. that you are on the side of the people and of the general interests of the public, against placing the Newport water supply, which in every city is the great necessity of daily life to poor and rich, under private ownership and contract. The mere statement of the proposition would seem to carry with it the argument against it. The nature of things forbids it. Water, like the air, should be free to all—placing on water only charge enough to meet cost of providing, pumping and distributing it, with interest on cost of the works. With city ownership, the people, through their representatives, can fix for themselves the water rates. Under private control the owners will make all they can. In water supply competition through a second company is impracticable.

"In an extensive comparison of rates in cities of corresponding size, I have found that companies charge 2½ times as much as cities, on the average. See newspaper article inclosed.

"Some weeks ago, I spent a few days in the beautiful cities of St. Paul and Minneapolis. In the one with company ownership, the citizens pay from two to three times as much as in the other where the city controls.

"In a general collection of facts during three years last past on the question of city or company control, I have found that in matter that comes up for municipal action, nothing has been so oppressive and extortionate and burdensome on the people as this of company water supply. It is strange that city councils have not learned to guard the tax-payers against this oppression. East of Illinois, however, I may state it is creditable to City Councils there are very few water works under company control. In this state we have but two—Terre Haute and Indianapolis. In Iowa the people of nearly every city have fallen prey to speculators in water. Quincy and Alton, Ills. have insented themselves under the monopolists.

"Very Truly

(Signed) "J. L. WILLIAMS."

BLOCK ISLAND.

The census of Block Island shows the population to be 1208, a gain of 61 in ten years. The number of deaths during the year ending May 31st, 1880 was eleven. The number found sick and in charge of the physician at the time of the visit was three, which the Block Island people think a pretty good showing.

Three of our Islanders namely, Horatio N. Milliken and Abram Milliken, brothers, and Samuel P. Dodge, while engaged on Saturday last in seining for bluefish at the south end of the island, when about half a mile from the shore, three large breakers came rolling in toward them capsizing their boat and leaving them to the mercy of the seas. They all being good swimmers succeeded in reaching the shore in safety, fortunately there was but little sea with the exception of that that caused the accident or they would undoubtedly have been lost.

U. S. Justice Hon. John M. Harlan and family of Washington, D. C., arrived on Friday last and have occupied the Ocean View cottage for the season.

The Ocean View Hotel is now receiving daily arrivals and is fast filling up. The boarding season begins much earlier this year than any of its predecessors. All of the hotels are receiving numerous applications for July and August and everything presents an unusually lively season at this popular summer resort.

The Earle & Frow Express Company have opened an office at this place at the store of Mr. O. C. Ball, with Mr. Ball as agent.

The Atlantic Billiard and Bowling Halls under the management of Mr. J. H. Macomber, were opened to the public the first week and are meeting with a great degree of patronage from our visitors Steamer Empire State came here on Sunday last, with a large crowd from Providence, but was unable to touch here on account of the tide.

Steamer Francis, of the Long Island route, touched here on Saturday evening on her trip to Newport, landing a few passengers. It is understood that she will touch here hereafter regularly each week.

MAC.

A LITTLE STORY.

Here is a touching little tale that the late Samuel J. Tilden will appreciate: "Jim," said his fond mother, aren't you going to marry that girl that you've been keeping company with so long?" "No," replied Jim in pensive tones, while his brow slowly corrugated, "I am not." "Why not?" inquired his maternal. "Well, ma, you see it's just here," explained Jim: "I proposed to Rachel Jane and she asked me to excuse her, and I was darned fool enough to do it."

Without wishing to encourage the world in gabble, we may state that the goldenness of silence is over-estimated. The mute, inglorious oyster is always getting into broils, stews and hot water.

A SERIOUS FIRE.

A HEAVY LOSS.—FULLY INSURED.

The issuing of smoke from the summer residence of the late Mary F. Wyeth, on Aymatt street at half-past eight this morning told the story that there was fire within. The house was to have been occupied by a family for the season in a few days, and has been in the hands of the mechanics and others getting it in readiness for the change. The carpets had been taken up, cleaned and put down, the hard wood work waxed and rubbed, and the furniture set in order. As is well known the house is elegantly furnished and everything about it kept in the best condition.

On discovering the smoke an alarm was given and the fire department summoned. The companies responded quickly, but were not on the spot quite as soon as the anxious spectators desired. Unfortunately the house is situated in a quarter of the city that is almost destitute of water. The steamers worked at a great disadvantage having to force water through long lengths of hose extending fully fifteen hundred feet to the source of supply. Delay was caused also by the hose on the reels giving out and the hose cart had not been supplied until the supply cart arrived. A single hydrant if placed in a convenient location would have saved as much as Mr. Norman charges for the use of 200 hydrants an entire year.

Under these adverse circumstances the fire made much headway. It began near the center of the building, and is supposed to have originated from the spontaneous combustion of rags that had been used in waxing and rubbing wood work. It worked its way upward through the three stories and blazed out of the roof in several places. Much of the furniture in the lower story was removed, but that above could not be reached. The building was perfectly deluged with water, and was thus saved from total destruction, but the loss on both building and contents is heavy.

The property is fully insured at the office of L. D. Davis, including house, furniture, works of art, stable, &c., as follows: Hartford, $10,000; Ætna, $7,500; Royal, $7,500; Insurance Company of North America, $7000; Total, $30,000. What the loss may be it is too early to tell.

POLITICAL NOTES.

Republicans with microscopes are cordially invited to scrutinize General Hancock's record.—[N. Y. Express.

There are indications that presently the Sun will recover from its funeral griefs, and become a bright and effective Democratic newspaper.—Express.

The Graphic presents a picture of Gen. Hancock which makes him bear a striking resemblance to the late lamented James Fisk, Jr.—[New London Telegram.

The nomination of Hancock is an evidence that the Democratic party gives up New York and falls back on Pennsylvania. All the better for us. We care little where the battle is fought, but can ask for no better vantage ground than the Keystone State.—[Washington Republican. And Pennsylvania will assuredly cast her 29 electoral votes for Garfield and Arthur, and that, too, by a majority not less than 20,000.—[Philadelphia News.

The "independent voter" is not numerous, thanks to our free schools and the intelligence of our people. Every intelligent voter is a man of principle, and he votes for his principles, not men. There will be no place for the self-asserted "independent" in the coming campaign. There will only be Republicans, Democrats, Greenbackers and Prohibitionists. The "independent" scarecrow should be forever retired.—[Philadelphia News.

A correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial is apprehensive that the Democratic newspapers have commenced their assaults on Gen. Garfield too early, and that the stock of material will be used up before the campaign fairly opens. And the Commercial thinks that "the organs do seem to have been a little premature. The more the charges against the General are investigated the clearer his record appears. He will not lose many votes as a consequence of the assaults upon him, and he has the satisfaction of seeing his party rallying to a man in his support."

THE MAGAZINES.

ST. NICHOLAS is always welcome and always worthy of a welcome. The July number has a patriotic flavor appropriate to the season; and, in an article written and illustrated by Mr. Daniel Beard, it tells the boys and girls how to celebrate the Fourth of July with Paper Balloons—how to make them, and how to send them up with safety to both balloons and senders. The frontispiece illustrates a stirring incident in the Revolutionary War—young Elizabeth Zane Saving a Fort garrisoned by a few patriots against five hundred Indians and a Tory leader. There is a picture, by J. E. Kelley, of the heroic deed of a young dragoon—one of Phil Kearney's famous twenty—in the Mexican war. The career of the brave and noble Montgomery—one of the generals of the Revolution—is told by George J. Varney, who writes of him and The Canadian Patriots of 1775. Mary Wager Fisher's story of Tom's Anti-Fire-cracker League suggests a pleasant way for live boys and girls to celebrate the glorious Fourth appropriately, without fire-crackers. Miss Lucretia P. Hale contributes another paper about the doings of the famous Peterkins. There is a short story of life in a Southern state, by Frank R. Stockton, with a picture by W. G. Fitler of all that a flood left of One tree Island.

THE PHRENOLOGICAL JOURNAL AND SCIENCE OF HEALTH, in its July number, well illustrates its principles. The articles entitled Dr. Arnold of Rugby; How to Teach Temperance Truths; Infinite Adjustments; The First Offer of Salvation; The New Education; Both's Cross; Hints for Summer use; and the interesting editorials which we have now scarcely space to enumerate. We always find the department of Correspondence and the Notes in Science and Agriculture and Literature entertaining and instructive. The Journal is now published at the low price of $2.00 a year, and a valuable premium to each subscriber. Address S. R. WELLS & Co., Publishers, 753 Broadway, New York.

THE WIDE AWAKE for July is a good number with a long and varied table of contents. Among the papers which will be of value here is the sketch under the heading of our American Artists, of our distinguished townsman, Mr. John LaFarge. It is from the pen of S. G. W. Benjamin and contains Mr. Lafarge's portrait of himself at twenty years of age. It contains also a picture of his studio and several other illustrations. The other articles are characteristic and cannot fail to interest and please those for whom they are intended. Wide Awake is published by D. Lothrop & Co., Boston, and may be had at all the news rooms.

GOOD COMPANY, (number ten) Ellen W. Olney contributes the leading story in Good Company, Number Ten. Two others are entitled Penance Extraordinary and Interpositions of Providence. Under the guise of a fish story Mrs. L. W. Champney happily hits off in her usual vivacious style various theological isms. Another contribution lets of "isms" in a place which was once badly given to them, Seneca Falls, including the origin of the Bloomer costume. It seems that Mrs. Bloomer was not the first to wear it, though it took its name from her. E. S. Gilbert has a seasonable study of nature, Along the Brook; George M. Towle writes of The Three Emperors; there is an account of an interesting historical collection of war-works in Westminster Abbey. Contributions from Mrs. Edward Ashley Walker and Miss Katharine Carrington; poems by Dora Read Goodale, T. S. Collier and Walter Learned; and the pros and cons as to decorating confederate graves. Published in Springfield, Mass. For sale at Clarke's.

ENGLAND'S CRIME AGAINST CHINA.

England is undoubtedly a Christian nation, and Englishmen have contributed millions of dollars to support missionaries among the heathen.

But England forces China to take opium from which she derives $36,000,000 annually, thus degrading the Chinese for a price.

England is in a dilemma. China must take the opium, or British India, which produces it, is a worthless province.

Chinese rulers have tried war to stop the opium trade, and would fight again, were not war against England hopeless.

England is deliberately taking $36,000,000 a year as the price of corrupting more than three hundred million human beings.

What a monstrous crime!

What a mockery of English Christianity!

No wonder the enemies of Gladstone good him by proposing a reform so difficult to accomplish, and so awful to neglect, as the suppression of the opium trade.

But England cannot always take Lira for the corruption of China and escape the scorn of civilized nations

That India income or that good name must be sacrificed!

EMULSION

COD LIVER OIL!

—WITH—

Pepsine and Quinine

offer this preparation of Cod Liver Oil to the profession, in the confident hope that it will supply a pleasant and efficacious form of administering that invaluable remedy.

It is unnecessary at this date to refer to the very high character which has been borne by the Cod Liver Oil since its first introduction; it is sufficient to state that the oil is used in the new preparation.

The proportion of oil held in the emulsion is fifty per cent.; the purest Turkey Gum Arabic and the purest White Sugar are the other ingredients employed in its manufacture.

The addition of Pepsine and Quinine is made with the view of enabling the most delicate stomach to retain and digest the oil.

None Genuine unless Bearing the Signature of the Proprietors.

The butcher who trusts loses flesh.

It is a strange thing in art that an actress must learn to paint before she can draw.

If you lose your breath don't run to catch it; you can catch it sooner by standing still.

The man who went on a fool's errand was probably performing one of his own commissions.

Some one describes the opera as that sort of music where "they squeal and go up, and then choke and come down."

A gentleman in lecturing for a blind asylum began by gravely remarking, "If all the world were blind, what a melancholy sight it would be."

An agricultural paper tells us that the skunk will exterminate the potato bug. After this announcement we have no little respect for the potato bug.—[Boston Transcript.

Fred (to Tom, who has looked through Fred's MS.): "You didn't know I was an author, eh?" "No, I didn't, and if you take my advice, you won't let anybody else know it if you can help it."

In General B. F. Tracy's law office in Brooklyn a placard is nailed up bearing the following words: "The Lord helps those who helps themselves, but the Lord help those who helps themselves to anything in this place."

A drag, driven by an elegantly attired lady, with a trim and neatly dressed colored boy perched on the footman's seat behind, was passing through the street, when it was espied by an old negro woman. "Bress de Lord!" she exclaimed raising her hands as she spoke. "Bress de Lord! I never 'spected to see dat. Wonder what dat young gallied gemman pays dat young white 'oman for drivin' dat herridge? I know'd it'd come, but never 'spected to lib to see it. De nigga's ready to go 'way now."

An archæological discovery of singular interest has been made at Sandebeard, Norway, where a whole ship of the Viking times has been found imbedded in a sandhill. It is supposed to be a relic of the eighth or ninth century. When the last report was made over twenty feet of the vessel had been unearthed, together with numerous tools of a thousand years ago, such as spades, shields, and many marine implements. It seems, also, that the vessel has seen service at sea. It is supposed to give a complete idea of the Viking era, although its age is almost as mysterious as the manner in which it came to be buried in a sandhill. It will be placed in the museum of the university at Christiana.

AN INCOMPARABLE ALIMENT FOR THE GROWTH AND PROTECTION OF INFANTS AND CHILDREN. A SUPERIOR NUTRITIVE IN CONFINED FEVERS, AND A RELIABLE REMEDIAL AGENT IN ALL DISEASES OF THE STOMACH AND INTESTINES.

This justly celebrated Dietetic Preparation is, in composition, principally the GLUTEN of the finest WHITE WINTER FLINT WHEAT CEREAL, in solid extract, the invention of an eminent Chemist. It has not only been highly recommended but certified to by a large number of Chemists and Physicians, representing a very high degree of nutritive, delicious, MOST ACCEPTABLE AND RELIABLE FOOD FOR THE GROWTH AND PROTECTION OF INFANTS AND CHILDREN, and for MOTHERS lacking sufficient nourishment for their offspring.

Unlike those preparations made from animal or farinaceous matter, which are liable to stimulate the brain and derange the digestive organs, it embraces THAT WHICH MAKES STRONG BONE AND MUSCLE, THAT WHICH MAKES GOOD FLESH AND BLOOD, THAT WHICH IS EASY OF DIGESTION—NEVER CONSTIPATING, THAT WHICH IS KIND AND FRIENDLY TO THE BRAIN, AND THAT WHICH ACTS AS A PREVENTIVE OF THOSE INTESTINAL DISORDERS INCIDENTAL TO CHILDHOOD.

And, which it will be difficult to conceive of anything in Food or Drink more Delicious, or more Nourishing and Strengthening, Dyspepsia and Dental Debility, as Bad Blood, Fits, Fleshless, in all Intestinal Diseases, especially in Dysentery, Cholera Morbus and Cholera Infantum, has been conclusively proven.
